Anatomy & Physiology 2016 Organizing Committee
Dear Colleagues,

A little time will pass and we’ll meet at the Conference “Anatomy and Physiology”. This is a good opportunity for us to present and compare research results. Today, the role and importance of innovative ideas and discoveries are increasing. And it is equally important to be able to use them in purposes of development of economics. But we should not forget the experience of our predecessors and their contribution to the development of science.

In this connection, it is useful to remember the names of physiologists, biologists and physicians, which combine their efforts and knowledge in the interests of space exploration, preparation and implementation of the first manned space flights. Their ideas are applying successfully today for preparation the future interplanetary expeditions, including ensuring of crews protection against long-term adverse influence of factors of space flight. Psychophysiological researches of cosmic orientation integrate the achievements of physiologists, biologists and psychologists.

We wish all of you success, health, happiness and prosperity!

Dear Colleagues,

I am extremely proud in welcoming our colleague to this conference. We all feel privileged to have such an opportunity to exchange education and research face to face. We are sure that our knowledge and experience will help us to develop our future. Anatomy and physiology explore structure and function of life, which always include all mechanisms of body. From the structure of cells, tissues, organs, and systems, the functions of cells, tissues, organs, and systems are produced. Only by integration, all of them can work together to be a whole organism. How to integrate? Who is the integrator? I would to be having opportunity to demonstrate an unknown system hidden along our skin, which is an important integrative system. I would like to share this discover with you and hope to share your discover to me.
